

National Rugby League Multicultural Program

This project was well received by schools and their students. One of the students who attended the Harmony Day coaching clinic at Telstra Stadium, Ibrahim Ghannoum, wrote:

It was so exciting. The most exciting thing was seeing the players from different teams, and hearing about their family life, and playing with other schools.

I made new friends from other schools, and I also made friends from other cultures and religions.

It is important so we can make peace and harmony. It is good to play sport so you can be healthy, and to make new friends.
